

Homework

11-1-16, due 11-2-16

For your homework (due tomorrow, 11/2), write a paragraph answering the following questions about dialogue in “Thank You, Ma’am”. The paragraph must be 5-7 sentences and can be typed or handwritten. (Tip: try this for the set-up of your paragraph: intro sentence, four sentences each answering a question, concluding sentence.) □

- What kind of language is used in the dialogue? Is it standard English, slang, old-fashioned, foreign, etc.? Why do you think the author chose this kind of language?
- How does the dialogue characterize Roger? Ms. Jones?
- How does the dialogue advance the plot?

Homework

11-1-16, due 11-2-16

For your homework (due tomorrow, 11/2), write a paragraph answering the following questions about dialogue in “Thank You, Ma’am”. The paragraph must be 5-7 sentences and can be typed or handwritten. (Tip: try this for the set-up of your paragraph: intro sentence, four sentences each answering a question, concluding sentence.) □

- What kind of language is used in the dialogue? Is it standard English, slang, old-fashioned, foreign, etc.? Why do you think the author chose this kind of language?
- How does the dialogue characterize Roger? Ms. Jones?
- How does the dialogue advance the plot?

Homework

11-1-16, due 11-2-16

For your homework (due tomorrow, 11/2), write a paragraph answering the following questions about dialogue in “Thank You, Ma’am”. The paragraph must be 5-7 sentences and can be typed or handwritten. (Tip: try this for the set-up of your paragraph: intro sentence, four sentences each answering a question, concluding sentence.) □

- What kind of language is used in the dialogue? Is it standard English, slang, old-fashioned, foreign, etc.? Why do you think the author chose this kind of language?
- How does the dialogue characterize Roger? Ms. Jones?
- How does the dialogue advance the plot?